Nature of Complaint

I am a plaintiff in Byrd v. Costco Wholesale Corporation, et al., Case No. 2025-CA-001320A000MX, pending in the Seventh Judicial Circuit, St. Johns County, Florida. I request investigation of Florida Notary Public Lisa L. Reagor's notarization of an affidavit by Tony Dattilo, Vice President of Costco Logistics, submitted with Costco's August 5, 2026 Motion for Protective Order (Docket 74). The original certificate identifies Illinois, DuPage County, while using a Florida notary commission. It represents that Mr. Dattilo personally appeared before Ms. Reagor and was personally known to her.

1. Professional Relationship

Ms. Reagor was attorney Kevin E. Jakab's legal assistant, as indicated by her email correspondence and LinkedIn profile. Mr. Jakab represented Costco in the litigation. Her registered notary address is the address of Jakab Law, PLLC, 6277 Dupont Station Court E., Suite 3, Jacksonville, Florida 32217. Ms. Reagor therefore notarized an affidavit by an executive of the law firm's client for use in litigation handled by her employer. I do not allege that this relationship independently violates notary law, but it is relevant to how the transaction was arranged and to her representation of personal knowledge.

2. Certification of Personal Knowledge

Ms. Reagor affirmatively certified that Mr. Dattilo was personally known to her. I request that investigators determine whether she possessed the personal familiarity necessary to make that certification. I recognize that their geographic separation and professional relationship do not themselves establish that they were unacquainted.

3. Notarial Venue and Authority

The original certificate identifies Illinois, DuPage County, despite Ms. Reagor's Florida notary commission. I request that investigators determine the physical locations of Ms. Reagor and Mr. Dattilo when the act occurred; whether she had lawful authority to notarize under those circumstances; and whether the certificate correctly stated the venue. If the parties were in different locations, I request review of compliance with applicable electronic or remote online notarization requirements.

4. Personal Appearance, Electronic Signature, and Oath

The original affidavit was electronically executed through DocuSign. Electronic signing is not itself improper. Nevertheless, the notarial certificate represented that Mr. Dattilo personally appeared before Ms. Reagor. I request examination of whether he appeared physically or through an authorized remote procedure, whether the required oath or affirmation was administered, and whether any required electronic or remote notarization records exist.

5. Subsequent Affidavit

After the original notarization was challenged, Costco submitted a supplemental affidavit on August 13, 2026, stating that it was locally notarized to cure Plaintiffs' objection to the original affidavit. The later filing does not independently establish misconduct. I identify it as context; it is available upon request and is not attached.

6. Requested Investigation

I respectfully request investigation of the factual basis for the certification of personal knowledge; the parties' locations; the affiant's personal appearance; administration of the oath; applicable electronic or remote procedures; the accuracy of the Illinois venue; and Ms. Reagor's authority and commission at the time of the act. I request any action warranted under Chapter 117, Florida Statutes.

Basis of Complaint and Attachment

My concerns are based on the court filings and the certificate itself. I do not claim firsthand knowledge of the circumstances of the notarization and request an independent investigation. Exhibit A: the complete original affidavit bearing Ms. Reagor's notarial certificate (submitted as a separate attachment).
